Stockmen Lost Over a Hundred Thousand Dollars—Government Only Pays Half, State to Pay Other.

Outbreak—Nov. 6, 1914.
Quarantine declared—Nov. 7, 1914.
Counties ravaged—10.
Cattle slain—1,352.
Sheep slain—1,664.

After a struggle lasting three months, the fight against the foot and mouth disease in Wisconsin has been won.

This was the announcement made on Saturday by Dr. Albert B. Behnke, who is in charge of the Milwaukee branch of the bureau of animal industry of the United States department of agriculture. The statement was qualified, however, by a reference to the possibility of the reappearance of isolated cases of the disease with the approach of warm weather. On Saturday, ninety days after issuance of the order that threw a quarantine around the entire state and prohibited the shipment of meat, cattle, sheep or hogs from Wisconsin and placed a restraint on all stockyards in the state, Wisconsin was declared free of the disease.

Dr. Behnke said that the case of the disease that halted the interstate shipments of cattle and has caused the stockraisers and dairymen of the state enormous losses, remained within the borders of Wisconsin.

"The state is clean," said Dr. Behnke on Saturday. "Not a case of the foot and mouth disease exists in Wisconsin today. However, all dangers may not be over and we are awaiting the return of spring with some anxiety. The closest inspection will continue as a preventive measure."

Since Nov. 6, the day the disease was discovered in Wisconsin herds, 4,440 head of stock of all kinds has been condemned and slaughtered under the direction of the bureau of animal industry, as a measure of prevention and other herds of cattle owners.

The value of this stock, as appraised, was $106,645.34, and the government is paying the owners for their animals on a basis of 50 per cent of the appraised valuation. Under this the stock owners of the state will receive $53,322.67 from the department of agriculture, which is sending out vouchers as rapidly as claims are filed and established. The state is planning to bear one-half the loss sustained by owners of herds, and the legislature is expected to authorize an appropriation to meet the $53,322.67 the federal government will not pay.

Order Still in Effect.
The quarantine order against Wisconsin is still in effect except it has been modified from time to time by order of the department of agriculture. On Saturday the order that affected the entire county was modified. Kenosha, Washington, Milwaukee, Dane and Green have been given relief.

Milwaukee county is clear from the effect of the quarantine, except as relates to the Milwaukee and the Cudahy stockyards. The general order of quarantine, however, may not be annulled for months—certainly not until every chance of the reappearance of the disease has passed. It is expected that modifying orders will be issued from day to day, however, until the state is practically released from shipping restrictions.

FORTY TRAVELERS ENJOY FINE DINNER

Janesville U. C. T. Council Holds Banquet Saturday Evening—Initiate Four New Members.

Forty commercial travelers enjoyed a fine dinner at the east side Odd Fellows lodge rooms at six-thirty Saturday evening, after which four new members were initiated into the Janesville Council No. 108, U. C. T. The initiates were all from the following firms: D. A. Clark, R. E. Clark, R. B. Clark, three brothers all in the employ of the James Manufacturing company, and N. O. Lavold. Six other Fort Atkinson travelers, members of the local council, were present for the dinner and exercises of the evening.

SENSE ABOUT FOOD

Facts Worth Knowing.

It is a serious question sometimes to know just what to eat when a person's stomach is out of order and most foods cause trouble.

Grape-Nuts food can be taken at any time with the certainty that it will digest. Actual experience of people is valuable to anyone interested.

A Terre Haute woman writes: I had suffered with indigestion for about four years, ever since an attack of typhoid fever, and at times could eat nothing but the very lightest food, and then suffer so with my stomach I would wish I never had to eat anything.

"I was urged to try Grape-Nuts and since using it I do not have to starve myself any more, but I can eat it at any time and feel nourished and satisfied, dyspepsia is a thing of the past, and I am now strong and well."

"My husband also had an experience with Grape-Nuts. He was very weak and sickly one spring, and could not attend to his work. He was put under the doctor's care but medicine did not seem to do him any good until he began to leave off ordinary food and use Grape-Nuts. It was surprising to see the change in him. He grew better right off, and naturally I have none but words of praise for Grape-Nuts."

"Our boy thinks he cannot eat a meal without Grape-Nuts, and he learns so fast at school that his teacher comments on it. I am satisfied that it is because of the great nourishing elements in Grape-Nuts."

This mother is right. Grape-Nuts food is a certain and remarkable re-builder of body, nerves and brain.

"There's a Reason."

Ever read the above letter? A new one appears from time to time. They are genuine, true, and full of human interest.

SATURDAY'S MARKETS.

Chicago, Feb. 8.—The $7.00 hog was put out of commission Saturday, best selling at $6.95. General average price at $6.50 was 34c lower than Wednesday, 5c below previous Saturday and $1.35 lower than a year ago.

While the lamb trade last week closed in demoralized condition, the week's average price at $8.90 was second highest in nearly three years and highest on record for February, being $1.40 above a year ago.

Chicago's cattle receipts last week were 17,300 smaller than previous week and 18,800 smaller than a year ago. Five leading outside western markets, however, had 21,000 more than previous week and 40,000 more than a year ago.

Owing to the diverted arrivals at Chicago the market here was a runaway affair in point of the advancing tendency of values first half of the week, but in sympathy with demoralization at outside points the market reacted.

Receipts for Monday are estimated at 15,000 cattle, 35,000 hogs and 17,000 sheep, against 13,800 cattle, 33,146 hogs and 13,203 sheep a week ago and 599 cattle, 46,852 hogs and 22,613 sheep corresponding Monday a year ago.

Arrivals for week ending Feb. 13 are estimated at 45,000 cattle, 200,000 hogs, and 75,000 sheep, against 50,207 cattle, 178,589 hogs and 110,135 sheep corresponding a week a year ago.

Big Drop in Hogs.
Bulk of hogs Saturday sold 20@25c off from Friday at low point of the week. Receipts at 35,000, including 5,000 direct to Armour, were a third beyond expectations. Packers bought late in the afternoon and few remained unsold. Estimated average weight last week 223 lbs. and two years ago 229 lbs. Quotations follow:

Bulk of sales.
Heavy butchers, 190@230 lbs. 6.80@6.90.

Light butchers, 145@190 lbs. 6.65@6.80.

Heavy packing, 260@400 lbs. 6.60@6.80.

Mixed packing, 200@250 lbs. 6.65@6.85.

Rough, heavy packing, 4.25@4.40.

Poor to best pigs, 60@135.

Stags, 80 lbs, dockage, per head, 5.25@6.40.

Lamb Trade—Closes Badly.

The best lambs closed Saturday at $8.75, or 60c below high point of the week and the same as previous Saturday. Trade finished decidedly top-heavy, notwithstanding the fact that Buffalo advanced to top to $9.40. Quotations follow:

Lambs, common to fancy, $7.60@8.75.

Lambs, poor to good culs, 6.60@7.50.

Fearlings, poor to best, 7.20@8.00.

Wethers, poor to fancy, 6.30@6.85.

Ewes, inferior to choice, 4.25@4.75.

Bucks, common to choice, 4.25@4.75.

Cattle Trade Slumpy.

The advance of 20@50c in cattle prices first half of the week was all lost the remaining three days, and trade finished top-heavy with market breakers in sight unless the run is held down to small proportions. Packers complain of a dull trade in dressed beef. Quotations follow:

Choice to fancy steers, $7.50@9.00.

Poor to good steers, 6.85@7.75.

Yearling steers, fair to fat, 6.50@9.10.

Fat cows and heifers, 4.60@7.80.

Canning cows and heifers, 2.10@4.50.

Native bulls and stags, 4.40@5.50.

Poor to fancy veal calves, 8.00@12.00.

HOT TEA BREAKS A COLD—TRY THIS

Get a small package of Hamburg Breast Tea, or as the German folks call it, "Hamburger Brust Thee," at any pharmacy. Take a teaspoonful of the tea, put a cup of boiling water upon it, pour through a sieve and drink a teaspoon full at any time. It is most effective way to break a cold and cure grip, as it opens the pores, relieving congestion. Also loosens the bowels, thus breaking a cold at once. It is inexpensive and entirely vegetable, therefore harmless.

The surest way to stop a cold is to loosen the liver and cleanse the bowels, and the nicest cathartic to do this is a 10-cent box of Cascarets. Take one or two Cascarets tonight and your cold may be gone by morning.

SET MILLER HEARING FOR THURSDAY MORN

Judge Maxfield Grants Adjournment and Alleged Burglar's Case Set for Thursday Morning.

Another adjournment was taken in the municipal court this morning in the preliminary examination of Fred Miller on the state's charges of burglary during the night time. When the case was called in the municipal court this morning District Attorney E. G. Dunwiddie reported that J. W. McCue, one of the principal witnesses, was absent from the city, and requested for further time. Judge Maxfield set the hearing for Thursday morning at ten o'clock. Meanwhile both Barry and Miller are confined at the county jail.

Miller is said to have told his attorney, John Cunningham, that he was not guilty of the robbery at the McCue residence, and his claim that he bought the stolen watch, and had the money found on his person, before the time of the crime, is the subject of much debate among the authorities. Subpoena papers were issued this morning for witnesses for the hearing and there is little doubt that the state will have evidence enough to warrant the holding of Miller for trial.

The civil action case of J. E. Kennedy vs. O. H. Olson for the recovery of a commission due from the sale of real estate, set for this morning, was adjourned for one week. T. S. Nolan and C. E. Pierce appeared in the case.

THE BREAD QUESTION.

Of all the silly propositions ever entertained by intelligent people is the discussion now going on in Chicago and other large cities about the price of bread. The notion seems to prevail that the baker is responsible for present conditions, and that he can regulate prices to suit himself.

The fact seems to be overlooked that the price of wheat is the only thing that regulates the price of flour, and the cost of bread is governed entirely by the price of flour.

This is an established principle that neither law nor sentiment can change.

If the people demand a nickel's worth of bread the only thing for the baker to do is to give them a nickel's worth based on the market value of the flour which enters into it. Butter, eggs and meat, like everything else,

advance with the market, and there is no reason why bread should not.

The strong features of the democratic administration are suspicion and regulation. Not satisfied to let nature take its course with the markets, an investigating committee has been appointed to see what is the matter with wheat. Any school boy has sense enough to grasp the situation. When half the world is at war and food production practically sus-suspended it means a shortage, and a short supply always means an advance in price.

The big wheat farmers, in the wheat states of America, are holding their wheat for the market, convinced that they take no chances, for there is no prospect of a surplus for months to come, and the foreign demand is steadily increasing.

The advance in the price of bread is a legitimate demand, and no power on earth can change it. There is no reason why a man who is fortunate enough to have a stock of flour on hand bought at old prices, should sell it at a sacrifice. He is entitled to the market price.

THE PAPER BLOCKADE.

Germany's paper blockade of England is one of the most important items of the present struggle that is going on across the Atlantic in which the United States is most particularly interested. There have been numerous paper blockades in previous wars, and some effective blockades have been maintained, but the present attempt to cut off England from supplies of all kinds by mere announcement is considered by some writers a gigantic bluff. In fact the Wall Street

Journal comes out in a flat-footed, bare-faced statement in which it calls

Germany's whole attitude a desperate bluff and says in an editorial published today in New York:

"When General von Kluck was defeated in his attempt to carry the city of Paris in one supreme rush, it was pointed out in the supreme columns that Germany was beaten and that she had an opportunity to make peace on more favorable terms than she could ever get again. Events have justified that inference. But no man could have foreseen that in a bare six months Germany, blind, furious, futile and despairing, would be fighting like a cornered rat, and screaming like a smacked baby.

"Without exception, the world's most tremendous bluff was the German war machine. Every threat is a bluff; and that was a threat which terrorized the world for forty years.

Admiral von Tirpitz announces a blockade of the British and French coasts by means of submarines, in disobeyance of the laws of war and the right of neutral merchantmen, have already been sunk, without ascertaining whether they contained the property of neutrals as international usage had determined humanity require. "But if this desperate bluff had anything behind it, why has the German submarine not sunk a single one of the thousands of transports which have been carrying men and supplies to France? As Germany has ruthles-ly disregarded every single one of the laws of war established by the Hague convention, and observed im-memorially by all but savages, no consideration of humanity prevented her making a successful attack at a point so vulnerable. If her power were so small in this connection, where a genuine military advantage would be obtained, why should the world be terrified by attacks upon unarmed merchantmen, having no more military advantage than the bombardment of Yarmouth or Scarborough?

"These measures are not military, but political. The German people had been flattered to the top of their bent.

They had been promised victory in six weeks, and they are facing starvation in six months. Something desperate has to be done to give them the impression they are getting value for their money. The Hohenzollern dynasty is tottering, and the conscript is beginning to think.

"The last development is a desperate bluff indeed. But the world will realize that it is not an evidence of strength, but a confession of weakness. The history of humanity and civilization does not record a spectacle so humiliating."

But to go back to the previous blockades of England. Napoleon made a similar bluff way back in 1806

and strange to say this was dated Berlin as well. It was an attempt of the conqueror to compel England to recognize the maritime law as constructed at the peace of Utrecht, the policy being known as the Continental system. An exchange giving a description of this blockade, says:

"The blockade was designed to shut

Great Britain off entirely from the continent of Europe. It prohibited all commerce and correspondence with Britain; all Englishmen found in countries controlled by French troops were made prisoners of war; all merchandise possessed by Englishmen was made lawful prize and all trade in English goods was entirely prohibited.

"No ship from Britain or its colonies was permitted to enter any port and any ship seeking to evade this regulation by false declarations was seized with its cargo.

"Three months later England, in retaliation, forbade all neutral vessels from trading port to port within France or any allied country. Confiscation of vessel and cargo was the penalty.

"Napoleon responded with a decree

a few days later ordering the confiscation of all English owned merchandise in Germany.

"In November, 1807, England declared all ports in France, allied countries and other countries, not at war

but from whose ports the English flag was excluded, to be under the same restrictions as if strictly blockaded.

"Two weeks after the French answered with the Milan decree and Talley in 1808 with another issued from

Talley directing that any ship that had submitted to British search, been sent on a voyage to England or paid duty to that country was to be considered British and liable to capture.

"At the treaty of Tilsit, Russia consented to close her ports to England,

the more effectually to annihilate British commerce.

"The consequence of the continental system was giving industries on the continent a start as later-day competitors of England. As prices rose so heavily that the middle classes were severely inconvenienced.

"However, both politically and economically the continental system was a mistake. Russia abandoned it in 1810. It resulted in the breaking up of Napoleon's power.

"Britain's enforcement of its blockade rulings offended the United States and formed one of the principal causes of the war of 1812."

COUNTY BOARD SHOWS CHANGE OF ATTITUDE

STATE AID HIGHWAY LAW HAS ENDORSEMENT OF MAJORITY OF SUPERVISORS.

STATE-WIDE CANVASS

Highway Commissioners' Association Seeks Expression of All Board Members in Wisconsin.

At the April meeting of the Rock county board of supervisors a resolution was passed without serious consideration in which the state aid highway law was endorsed in unqualified terms. Since that time there has been a change in the attitude of the board members, according to a canvass which was recently conducted by Highway Commissioner Charles E. Moore.

A list of twelve questions were submitted to the supervisors covering every phase of the state aid problem. The answers have been tabulated and the same questions will now form the basis for a new circular letter which the Wisconsin county highway commissioners will prepare to be sent to every county supervisor in the state in order to secure an adequate expression of the prevailing sentiment on road building. Mr. Moore, as the new president of the association, will have charge of drafting the questions. Following are the questions submitted to the Rock county supervisors and the tabulated replies.

Agree Work Is Better.

Do you consider the standard of road work done in Rock county under the law better or worse than the work done under the old county aid law?

Yes, 24; no, 1.

Do you think that any town chairman would desire to have charge of the work himself or that it would be beneficial if he did?

Yes, 2; no, 22.

Do you think it would improve the present law by creating a road committee to give some control of the plans and acts of the highway commissioner in cases where complaint has been filed and to report upon his work to the county board?

Yes, 7; no, 22.

Do you think it is just and right for Rock county to build and maintain a system of highways and other counties not to do likewise?

Yes, 6; no, 17.

Can you suggest a better way to induce all counties to state things than by levying a nominal state tax with opportunity extended to each county to win it back by doing road work?

Yes, 3; no, 20.

Do you have any serious objections to the present law or the annual appropriation were cut down to a point where Rock county can easily utilize its portion of the fund and will not stand to lose or be compelled to do by the towns?

Yes, 5; no, 20.

Efficiency Most Important.

Which do you consider of paramount importance? The question of who shall have control of the work or the question of how best to obtain a dollar's worth of road for a dollar in money?

Efficiency, 15; local control, 0.

Would you suggest a better way to induce all counties to state things than by levying a nominal state tax with opportunity extended to each county to win it back by doing road work?

Yes, 0; no, 20.

Do you consider it beneficial to have surveys and plans made by the state highway department with power to cause the dismissal of the county highway commissioner if he should not do his duty?

Yes, 16; no, 3.

In Rock county the cities pay approximately one-third of the cost of construction and one-half the cost of reconstruction, maintenance and machinery. Is this beneficial to the units receiving the same sufficiently to warrant the expenditure of the money?

Yes, 21; no, 0.

Would you be in favor of abolishing the present highway law?

Yes, 7; no, 15.

Would you suggest any other law in place of it?

County aid, 9; state aid, 20.

Commissioners Favor Law.

The present state aid law was favored by the majority of the county highway commissioners and a majority of the members were in opposition even the suggested amendments offered by the state highway commission. The tenor of the meeting is shown by the following resolution, which was adopted.

"Resolved, That we consider the authoritative supervision of highway and bridge work by the state highway commission the most vital provision of the state highway law, and we commend that no change be made in the present law that will in any way lessen their authority in supervising this work."

In addition to Mr. Moore, E. L. Bingham of Harmony, W. D. Readway of Beloit, members of the county road committee, and H. B. Mosley of the town of Beloit, county chairman, attended the sessions of the good roads school at Madison last week. A number of the members of the county road committee were also in attendance at some of the sessions.

Enlarged Tonsils and Adenoids.

Before operating to remove adenoids and tonsils the health of the child should always be built up. If there is an existing cold this must be treated and cured. If the teeth are decayed they must be filled. Treating the teeth and the practicing of deep breathing exercises will be all that is needed to cure tonsil disease if it is strictly local, and not the expression of a systematic condition or some recent infection.

The Evening Chit-Chat

BY RUTH CAMERON

GOOD BUT NOT AGREEABLE.

"She is one of those people who never lift their hands to do things for you and whom in spite of that you like better than some of the people who do lots for you," characterized Molly, the little stenographer lady.

It is a good characterization, isn't it? Don't you know people like that, people who almost never put themselves out to do things, material things, for you and yet somehow their presence and their personality win your liking?

I am thinking of this moment of a girl who has almost never lifted her hand to do anything for any member of our family, although we have entertained her again and again.

When she stays at the house she does not always remember even the elementary courtesy of making her own bed. And yet we are glad to see her come and like her better than many of our more helpful guests.

And don't you know the other type of person, the kind of person who is ever quick to be of service and yet in some inexplicable way fails to render you the greatest service of friendship, that of making you like him or her.

I sometimes think I am more sorry for these people than for any other type. They do so much for you that they feel themselves entitled to your deepest friendship and gratitude and when they find that they are not receiving it they burn with a sense of resentment and injustice. Fate has cheated them. Life has committed to them the "mean" cell.

The Over Anxious Hostess. The hostess who works so hard to have her house arranged in order and to prepare you extra delectable meals and arrange interesting entertainment for you that she tires herself out and cannot be pleasant to you with her material welfare and works so hard keeping their bodies clean and well fed and another of these most unfortunate persons.

And then there is the capable kindly friend or relative who will do anything on earth for your welfare but it must be done in her way and home, and she must be permitted to reserve for herself the right to tell you how your affairs should be managed and to generally supervise your home.

Once upon a time there was a little boy who asked to what part of Heaven those people went who were good but not agreeable. When I met one of these people I often think of that question.

Questions and Answers. Question. "I have just lost the dearest one on earth. I can't bear to think of the long dreary years ahead and I thought possibly you could just what I could do but I have time and a little money to give. How shall I go about it?"

Answer. In every city there are charitable organizations where anyone who wants to help is welcomed and put in touch with those who need help. There are also certain people who by their positions come in contact with the unfortunate and are only too glad to have help in helping them. You might apply to the director of the poor or the superintendent of the Old Folks Home. I do not think you will have any difficulty in finding something to do for others with your time and money. The only difficulty will be that you will find so much to do that you will be appalled at the contrast between the need and what you can give.

Glimpses of Married Life

BY MRS. EVA LEONARD

"You can't help seeing, if you will only allow yourself to think straight on the subject, that we were made for each other."

The young man noisily worked his canoe paddle and looked at the girl sitting opposite him. The effect of his words, a proud lifting of her head, a flash of her only response. She trailed her fingers through the warm water and dreamily a zed in the river. The graceful willows were a silver screen in the moonlight, and the bare of the dance hall music floated on the still air, softened almost melody, while the reflections of its lights bobbed up and down in the water, and each waves by the tiny excursion steamer.

"I love this river on a night like this," remarked the girl. "All the love and tenderness of life along the banks is concentrated by the kind moonlight. I suppose that moonlight is so popular for love makers. It conceals real conditions of life; lovers dwell in an unreal world. It has always been a theory of mine, that moonlight is responsible for a great many divorces. You see, after marriage the young people come with a job and a work-day world with a jolt and each blames the other for the deception when neither was to blame, only the magic moonlight. The moon has affected you; otherwise it would be a great strain on your imagination to have to invent so many pretty speeches, containing so much heart interest and delicate sentiment."

"The fact that I keep it up is a sign of true love and devotion."

"What?" the girl gave a cry of incredulity.

"No man," declared the young fellow, "could keep it up for a woman he didn't love."

"In daylight," interrupted the girl, "but by moonlight?" As I said, the moon is responsible.

"You are hard on the fellows who work by day," said her companion, "definitely turning the canoe to meet the waves the tor steamer had started. Now that the 'budding doctor'—the girl's fingers—floated over a letter in her coat pocket—"I suppose he had a chance to speak by daylight."

A musical laugh floated over the water.

"Tell you, Give me a chance Saturday afternoon, since you consider my remarks an answer to them," his voice was vibrant.

"We must go in the morning late; but oh, I wish it were seven instead of ten o'clock."

"So do I," replied the young fellow, leading for the boat house.

Seated in the room that night, Agnes spread out the letter she had carried with her all day, and sat down in front of her dresser to give it more careful reading. I must decide Saturday is not far away," she said, and dropped her eyes to the page. The letter read:

"Can it be six years since I asked you to be my wife that commenced my life? I knew it was wrong to tell you of my love, but I had another year of college and four years in medical school before me, and you were so young. I had no right to stop the free, happy flow of your life. Your beauty and position would naturally bring you all good things, and I selfishly tried to persuade you to be 'Walter's little girl'."

"Of course, I made myself tell you that you must be free to go in any society you choose. I felt you must know other men. Then, if I could keep you, I would have a right to you, otherwise it would be a plain steal. I know my fate was variable, the balance, and I will say nothing of what I felt. I love you enough to leave you free to choose between us or rival."

"Just this I want to say: In addition to my appointment as assistant to Dr. Morse, I have been appointed lecturer to the dental students on the subject of marriage. I am sure of enough income now to warrant our marriage if I should be so unfortunately happy as to win the prize. It will be seven years hence June since I first told you of my love. To say that it has grown seven-fold would but feebly express it."

"Whatever your decision, believe me always."

"You devoted lover."

"GIVE WATER." She glanced in the mirror in front of her and as she met the clear eyes gazing into hers she said: "A faithful Jacob of this seven years as did I, I first told you of my love, and success from poverty and untoward circumstances, is the kind that would not fail me. I will tell him we will be married on the seventh anniversary of that commencement day."

RUSSIAN WOMAN WINS CROSS OF ST. GEORGE

RUSSIAN NURSE WINS. Although But Nineteen Years of Age Girl Enlists With Russian Dressing Boys' Clothes.

[SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.] Petrograd, Feb. 8.—The latest Russian woman to be decorated with the Cross of St. George for valiant services, an the battlefield is Lydia P. Tychnina, now recovering from wounds in one of the military hospitals at Moscow.

Present at the Kiev women's University, when the war broke out, Tychnina, aged 19, tried to join the army as a nurse with a field hospital, but she was refused because of her lack of medical knowledge. However, she was determined to go to the front, and decided to join the army in another way.

I took the name of Anatoly Tychnina, bought a soldier's uniform, and hired an orderly to teach me how to salute officers," she tells. "We were determined to go to the front, and I walked and talked like a soldier. I hurried to a railway station from with a crowd of other soldiers to the front, and when they lay down and rest, I would rise up. He said in part:

"The lesson of the growth of the Russian religion in Korea is that such work is not done in a day or night, but with constant work which allows the power of the Gospel to assert itself, when the word of the Gospel, once its truth is learned, is on Reaping Children.

"The greatest work of the world is the work which affects humanity the most profoundly," said the Rev. George Edwin Parisee in his sermon delivered Sunday morning at the Presbyterian church. The text of the discourse was "Thou shalt love thy neighbor as thyself."

These words God commanded Israel to teach diligently to the hearts of the young that 'thou shalt love the Lord thy God with all thy heart, and with all thy soul, and with all thy mind, and with all thy strength, and thy neighbor as thyself. There is no other commandments greater than these.

A daily application of the text is that we shall diligently teach our children to love the one God with all their soul, heart and might. Now-a-days we are inclined to ask whether education will serve as a nation against the forces of evil. The boundaries of faith in education as a moral, religious and national restorative which filled men's minds in the early part of this century have been almost entirely quieting questions as to whether it can do anything so high. There is some doubt if education does more than restrain men from the worst crimes, by pointing out their consequences.

"That which is necessary in the greatest work of the world, is to keep an ideal of life before the mind and action of our young people. This was done in Israel by keeping before their young people, the very best that their highest minds had achieved, and through about God. Our text places the demands on the parents and the parents must first of all give themselves up to the love of God without any reserve. And they shall teach God's love diligently to their children. The truth about God, the thought about God, should be a subject to which conversation naturally turns, and to

The devotion of the regular Russian Red Cross nurses continues to the front enthusiastic reports from the Red Cross nurses in the field.

Their bravery is of a kind that fills the heart of every soldier with admiration," writes a general in recommending that the nurses Olga Matveyeva and Leda Josephovitch be given the Cross of St. George. They disregarded danger, and they smile at death warnings death-dealing bombs, do not cause them to turn back. Small wonder that the Red Cross sisters have greatly helped to make the Russian force victorious.

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.] Hanover, Feb. 8.—Over a million women are engaged throughout Germany in work for the soldiers at the front. Members of over two thousand women's societies give their services voluntarily to the various branches of assistance both for those in the trenches and for those who have returned disabled by wounds or disease. Not only are they doing splendid work in nursing in the field and in the hospitals, but they are looking after those who are convalescing in private homes and public institutions or recuperating in the field.

In the numerous recreation halls where the wounded soldiers gather the women also do their best to provide entertainment. In other respects also they are kept busy—for instance, organizing popular kitchens where food is provided cheaply for the indigent dependents of the soldiers. They also knit and make warm garments for the troops, while many of them devote themselves to the care of the children of poor women obliged to go work to keep their homes together during their husbands' absence.

DR. W. B. HUNT DESCRIBES INSPIRATION GAINED IN WORK AMONG NON-CHRISTIANS.

A SERMON TO PARENTS

Rev. George Edwin Parisee Shows Responsibility of Parents for Child's Religious Training.

"After eighteen years of hardships and privations among the Koreans, there is one text that stands uppermost in my mind, which is: 'I am not ashamed of the Gospel,' said the Rev. W. B. Hunt, Presbyterian minister, who is on a furlough from Chai Ryung, Korea. A large congregation of the Presbyterian church in the same city today, he said, is the result of his missionary work in Korea and portrays the character, habits and life of the people.

Korea eighteen years ago, when the nation was little known to Americans, the largest congregation of Christian believers in any one city numbered only two hundred, but in the same city today, you will find over two thousand converted persons. The country is far from being civilized, the number of those converted being but a dent in the wall of heathenism. Korea you will find that the man of color who does not believe in Christ is no more a heathen than the person who is an unbeliever in America.

which we should gladly and continuously return. To young and undisciplined minds, the grace of God seems a heavy burden, when as a matter of fact, grace is really God's crowning mercy. If we educate our children to the fact that the presence of a living guide, Jesus Christ, who is ready to open our feet from the paths of destruction, such a knowledge might prove inadequate influence to overcome strong temptations. Keep alive the spirit of God in your children. This will render them more familiar with all the aspects of truth and phases of religious emotions and throughout that child's life, religion would seem a region already explored and in which there is no thirsty soul.

Gain Strength in Teaching. Faith has gained some sane and strong teaching through the training and teaching of the children. But their children do not start where their father left off, but begin with the same evil passions and tendencies as their parents began with.

"The greatest work in the world is the work which affects humanity the most profoundly. The products men make in the social instinct, they trade in, are goods perishable. But children are immortal. To our ordinary way of thinking, the work by which a man makes money is important, if not the greatest event in life.

To most fathers the children are innocent. They are loved and they will be faithfully provided with the things of life. As they grow up, they will more and more be the objects of paternal pride. But nevertheless, the career of man, the business of the main trunk of life, the home family, its pleasant branches. Men say they want to succeed for their children, but they seldom get the idea that the biggest success would be to succeed in their children. That the raising of a family is the main work of life and not merely the supplement of a career.

Even mothers don't catch this thought as is usually expected of them. Perhaps the majority of them regard themselves as housekeepers first of all and make money only secondarily. They are wives by choice and mothers by fate.

A sadly considerable minority of mothers even rate their alleged social duties as a more important thing than the raising of their children. Parents are not fulfilling the measure of their bound duty and obligation to their children until they have deliberately adopted the view that the young woman's preparation for their superlative business in life.

Children, you do not teach your children to love God with all their heart and soul and mind, to make preachers out of them, but to give them the power that in their work will resist evil. This is the greatest work in the world, the process by which a soul is fitted to be and to do the things God meant it to be and to do.

The greatest work in the world is to teach the child the cross of Jesus Christ, the child to have willingness to enter communion with God and to seek that communion when Christ throws open the soul to receive the love which is his, persistently presses upon the human heart.

PEACE DOVE GAZES ON FIELDS OF CARNAGE. [BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.] The Hague, Feb. 8.—Marital scenes without the horrors of war are still as frequent in Holland as in any of the belligerent countries, notwithstanding that the Netherlands are absolutely neutral. The Dutch army, was, in fact, the first to mobilize and hostilities the streets of its cities and its country roads have swarmed with armed men proceeding to or from their barracks and their manœuvring grounds. The cafes, the restaurants, the theatres, the clubs and other public gathering places are crowded every day with men in uniform.

The cost of all these preparations for the defense of the country against a possible attempt to commit a breach of its determined neutrality is borne almost with equanimity by the people, as was evidenced by the over-subscription of the recent Government loan. Diminution of trade has followed in the wake of the war outside Dutch boundaries. This has been due principally to the embargo placed on their exportation of various articles and to the difficulty of obtaining coal, much of which was imported from Germany, the figures showing that only 264,919 freight cars crossed the Dutch-German frontier last year as compared with 337,268 in 1913. Coal imports were reduced from 125,766 car loads in 1913 to 98,273 car loads last year.

Heart and Home Problems

BY MRS. ELIZABETH THOMPSON

Dear Mrs. Thompson: I wrote a letter to a young man with whom I had been corresponding and within a few days he called me by phone, asking me to write another letter explaining the letter I said I did not have time to write. Later I had a date with him. He has never answered my letter. Do you advise me to write or let him answer the letter first?

(1) Does a boy like a girl if he teases her?

(2) What should a girl say or how should she answer a boy for taking her any place, or accompanying her home?

(3) Do you think it the nature of the majority of boys to tell a girl anything?

(4) Do you think a boy will tell a girl a lie just so he can make her believe him and make himself appear as a fine fellow to her?

(5) I should certainly let him answer my first letter before writing again. Never do anything that will make you feel that you have committed a sin if he should cease writing or calling.

(6) It is the nature of some boys to tease those they like and those they dislike, though the kind of teasing is very easily distinguishable.

(7) Simply thank him for pleasing you home and express your pleasure in the entertainment and thank him also, if you choose. It is perfectly proper.

(8) That depends on the boy. Some boys and some girls are secretive and some tell everything they know.

(9) Some boys like to brag and tell of their achievements and some do not adhere to the truth.

Dear Mrs. Thompson: I am 20 years of age and have been going with a young man of 21 for a year and a half. We have been engaged about six months and intend to be married in about a year. But as my mother is dead and my father is married a woman who is very hateful to me, I would like to get married in a short time, as the young man has should I go about it to tell him what such things before marriage. How can I ask him not to do this without making him mad?

(1) What is most suitable for a wedding dress in these days?

(2) Is a wedding trip necessary?

(3) What hour is most suitable for the wedding?

(4) My father wants me to be married at home, but his wife does not. What would be best for me to do?

(5) Dear girl, if the intimate relations existed between yourself and your fiancé that should exist in such a relation, I cannot imagine anything of your unappetizing to take you away from such disagreeable exposure. Marriage brings people so near to each other that it can be known each other utterly. It seems to me that if you loved the young man you would not object to his kissing you. An engagement is only second in point of sacredness to marriage and a girl need not be ashamed to let her fiancé know she loves him.

(6) Wedding dresses should be suited to the kind of wedding decided upon. If you are married at noon in a going-away gown, the home wedding in the evening a light dress suitable for evening wear is more appropriate.

(7) Not at all. That depends on the wishes and purse of the contracting couple. An expensive wedding journey is not appropriate to a young couple beginning life with small means.

(8) That is for the bride to decide. Most weddings occur either at noon or in the evening.

(9) If it is your father's wish and he surely can have his daughter married at home. A home wedding is by far the best if it can be arranged.

The Want Page offers an opportunity to the small advertiser that spells success if taken advantage of.

This is the most widely read page in the paper, if one page can be said to attract more than another, because it contains every day new offers, new bargains and fills new wants. Nearly everybody reads the want ads. It is time most interestingly spent even if you are not looking for anything in particular.

The rate of advertising is low. Three-quarters of a cent a word cash or a cent a word over the phone. Want ads may be left at Baker's Drug store if desired, with the money.

Dinner Stories

Customer (to druggist)—The label on this bottle isn't right. Druggist—Why not? It says "Shake before taking."

Customer—It should read "Take before shaking." This medicine is for chills, isn't it?

The district attorney at a dinner in New York told a story about honesty. "There was a man," he said, who applied for a position in a dry goods house. His appearance wasn't prepossessing, and references were demanded. After some hesitation he gave the name of a driver in the firm's employ. This driver, he thought, would vouch for him. A clerk sought out the driver and asked him if the applicant was honest. "Honest?" the driver said. "Why, his honesty's been proved again and again. To my certain knowledge he's been arrested nine times for stealing and every time he was acquitted."

Mrs. Winship left her little son, Randall, to play with his baby brother. Shortly after she heard the baby screaming lustily. Hurrying to the place where the children were playing, she found Randall picking up his marbles, while the youngster was trying vainly to get hold of one of them. "Why, Randall!" said the mother, "don't be so selfish! Let your little brother play with some of your marbles."

"But," protested Randall, "he means to keep them always, mother."

"Oh, no, dear! I guess not," replied the mother. "What makes you think that?"

"Well, I guess yes!" howled Randall. "I know he does, 'cause he's swallowed three of 'em already!"

THREE BIG MATCHES STAGED THIS WEEK

Champion Welsh Meets Shugrue for Second Time on Tuesday Night at New York—Wolgaast Loose Again.

Three big bouts are scheduled on the week's boxing calendar. The first of which is when Champion Freddie Welsh and Young Joe Shugrue mix for ten rounds Tuesday night in New York. This match promises to be the star attraction of the week, as the Jersey fighter will have his second opportunity of fighting Welsh as champion and the American expects to have a chance to win the title. Welsh is a champion of the ring, having defeated even in a decision bout. The fact that Welsh has been given the wrong end of so many newspaper decisions makes it about time he fought a ten round decision contest for there are a number of American lightweights who have proven a worthy foe of the champion. Shugrue is not given much chance to win Tuesday night, but, for he lacks the knee, which will probably give Welsh a tasty trouncing. On Thursday night two champions, Sammie Rodibean and Calahan, who put Joe Rivers and Calahan, in two rounds, clash at St. Louis for ten rounds. Rodibean is a corner and will meet his hardest foe in Calahan, who has fought Welsh a second draw and mixed with Charlie White. On Sunday Johnny Dundee, the "South-west" meets Joe Mandot, twenty two rounds. Both of these lightweights have numerous records of late years and are listed among the six best lightweights in the country. Mandot has been going at a great pace during the last two years and Dundee has never stopped going at an equal pace among the cream of the pugilists. The pugilistic and misanthropic nature of the act in his most recent come-back campaign tonight against Cy Smith at Columbus, Ohio. The re-entry of the Michigan fighter for the title honors is bound to result in a new interest, when Wolgaast puts the rosin on his shoes, there is always a fight, for the ex-champ does not know what it is to quit. Kibane, featherweight champion with Eddie Morgan, a second fight at Philadelphia on Saturday. Johnny Ertel is expected to win from Young Izzo in the ten round bout at Kenosha on Friday.

WELSH AND RITCHIE MEET ON MARCH 11TH

Former Champ Will Take on Man Who Took His Title in a Ten Round Bout at New York.

(By Hal Sheridan.)
New York, Feb. 8.—At last Willie Ritchie has decided to come out of his shell. Lured by the siren call of dollars, the former lightweight champ has agreed to meet the man who uncrowned him, in New York on March 11. The battle will be over the ten round route. In taking the bout Willie incidentally learned the difference between being champion and being just merely a contender. Ritchie, it will be remembered, was the best of that "10,000, or no fight" stuff. And he got away with it, too. But Willie will only profit by $5,000 when he meets the champion. His $10,000 days are over unless he can manage to put over a win on the sturdy Brit. Now that the match is clinched fans are turning their attention to the probable outcome. Willie has donned the gloves but once since he lost his crown to Welsh some seven months ago. And that was a four round affair with Johnny Dundee and not very strenuous, according to those who saw the bout. Welsh, on the other hand, has been battling all comers, about once every two weeks or so, and is right now in the top of his speed. Ritchie has been picking up a few shekels doing the angle-worm fight over various vaudeville circuits, and little training. Of course, the American has plenty

SPORT SNAP SHOTS

MORRIS MILLER

President Gaffney of the Braves is not sanguine as to the success of the coming season from a financial standpoint. He made the following remarks to someone bound to lose a lot of money this season and the players will be the final sufferers. There is a mistaken idea of the amount of money that is made in the business. When the Boston Braves left for their last trip last year they were $30,000 behind, and we figured on a loss of at least $75,000 on the year. Then, to our agreeable surprise, they commenced to play sensational ball, finally to draw two record crowds at Fenway Park Labor Day, all of which pulled us out of a bad hole. We also did good business at home during September. It is not hard to figure that baseball is anything more than a fair gamble, even in Boston, one of the very best cities in the country. Think of the weaker cities, which are forced to have very limited attendance. What show have they to make money, unless lucky enough to have a pennant winner? And all can't be pennant winners.

It cost the University of Michigan Athletic Association $12,000, in round figures, to place a football eleven on the gridiron in 1914. Eastern universities have been complaining of the high cost of football. Since it cost Michigan $12,000, students and football followers naturally ask what part of that amount represents the salary paid Fielding H. Yost for coaching the players. To get all arguments at rest, Yost was paid $5,000 of that amount. He will get $5,000 each year he serves under the present contract, and if Michigan decides not to engage his services after that, he has the satisfaction of knowing that several other schools that are willing to pay him more.

Jess Willard, the giant Kansan who fought Jack Johnson at Juarez March 6, never boxed in a preliminary bout. Willard broke into the ring game by losing his first bout on a foul at Sapulpa, Okla., Feb. 15, 1911. Louis Fink lost in the tenth round to Jess Willard. Since then Willard has lost only one bout, Gunboat Smith getting a decision over him at San Francisco, May 20, 1913. Willard never has been knocked down in the ring nor sustained a bloody nose. He is so strong he doesn't know how hard he can hit. Total abstinence from tobacco and liquor has helped him. He is six feet six inches tall, weighs 225 pounds and wears a No. 10 shoe. Jess can run 100 yards in 11 seconds.

Frankie Fleming, featherweight champion of Canada, is hot on the trail of Johnny Kilbane, the former, whose headquarters are at Montreal, has been clearing up regularly this winter and has stopped a number of Yankee opponents. Fleming's backers want the world's championship to meet the Canuck at Montreal.

Jack Johnson's latest nickname is "The Big Cinder." A Paris boxing writer, using the name of Jack following his bout with Frank Moran. Whether the man who coined the title thinks Johnson is burned out or not known on this side of the Atlantic.

SPURT IN LAST HALF BY LAKOTAS DEFEATS WISCONSIN RESERVES

Lakota Cardinals Returned Winners Over University Team in Well-Played Game by Score of 29 to 20.

One more scalp was added to the victory list of the Lakota Cardinals when they defeated the Wisconsin Reserves, an All-Star university aggregation at the Auditorium Saturday night by the score of 29 to 20. With the score ten all, at the end of the first half, the Lakotas by a sensational spurt for ten minutes, added wood caused the white flag to appear above the defensive works of the Reserves, their team-work crumbling beneath the attack. By this victory the Cardinals have just claim to the basketball title of western Wisconsin and judging from the speed displayed, the five could add several other districts to their championship. Despite the fact that the first half was played under intercollegiate rules, there was no inclination to rough it or was there any intentional fouling, the cleanliness of the game being carefully guarded by Referee Langdon. The game proved, the two teams played on even terms the first half, with the invaders showing excellent team-work and basketball. The Lakotas were saddled with a week on scoring, and that should have rolled the score up to a safe margin, swamping the Reserves. Dalton was a marked man, scoring 10 points, while Edler, who was a disliking to roll through the rim. Atwood was held even by Davy during the first half and "Lanky Ed" had a hard time to shake off this noted Madison center and guard. The Reserves lost the game through trying too long passes and individual dribbling on the big floor. They were hard fighters, but they did not win the game and had a big margin on the Cardinals. Then it came to clean scoring. Davy and Skinner, the blond guard and the blond forward, who were versatile fullback and former Madison boys and proved hard men for the Lakotas. Davy was strong in carrying the ball down the floor by dribbling, going down the floor like a racing machine on a straight-away, to bump into Edler or Ryan at the other end of the floor, who were able to prevent his scoring. Leslie, center of the Reserves, gave Hemming a hard fight and about the only thing that the local player had on his rival was on the jump. This gave the Cardinals a big lead on the ten work and signals worked to a good advantage.

For the Cardinals, Atwood played in the leading role, for when scores were needed his Carroll was just naturally romped down the floor and hoisted the ball into the basket. He scored eight baskets over Davy, six of which came in the second half during the exciting spurt at which time the Reserves were pressing the Cardinals with might and main. Dalton was the best floor man of the ten players, for he shared in every play of the game and was a substitute thorn, hindering Madison's offensive warfare. He was the German submarine, to the Reserves' blockade of the Cardinals' team-work, and sunk a few of the visitors' victory hopes by spilling up passes. Edler proved to be the emergency man, for when there was play that was dangerous, he was always there to stop a dribbler or check an unguarded man from scoring.

After Dalton started the scoring, Atwood put two straight goals over before the Reserves got started. When Skinner tried with a respectable long side shot, Hemming scored two over Davy, but lost his man toward the last of the half and the Cardinals evened the count. Ryan at numerous times tried his usual long shots, but failed to hit the target.

In the second session the Reserves kept the score a tie until the last ten minutes, when Atwood was "fed" the ball by Dalton and Edler and slipped the four straight over. Davy was not clinched matters. The crowd which numbered around five hundred, breathed a sigh of relief when the time was called, for the Reserves fought back gamely to overcome the lead made in the spurt.

RINGS.
"Wait until we bring Stengel and Coleman down here," was all the Reserves had to say after the game. The Reserves were short these two regular players because of it being mid-semester at the university. Stengel played on the title winning Badger team and is considered the best player ever turned out in this state. A return game is to be played between the Reserves and the Lakotas, and with the other two regulars, the result would be as unsafe to wager on as the war.

HOW PITCHER JAMES WENT TO CHAMPIONS FROM SEATTLE CLUB

F. L. Smith Gives Interesting Side-light on How World Series Hurlier Was Obtained by Boston Braves.

How much of the average story alleged to be written by the star baseball player that appears under his signature is to be believed. The story which follows goes to show that the "put-over" is a gross violation of veracity and that George Stallings, a man of the Boston Braves, is not immune from having success but in his eyes or rather gag his tongue regarding how the Boston Braves got Bill James, pitching hero of the world baseball followers that John M. Ward, president of the Boston National club in 1912, started his baseball career in Jamestown, playing with the famed Jamestown Mutuals, who were the class of the baseball world in their time. Frank L. Smith, a member of the Mutuals, obtained the services of Ward when he was but nineteen or twenty years of age from the east and Ward pitched the Mutuals through a very successful season. Ward from this city went to Providence, Rhode Island, then a big league club and later went to New York, where he became manager. Under Ward Amos Rusie, premier pitcher was developed and a mutual friendship resulted between the two. With this explanation given, it is now time to introduce an article that appeared in a Portland paper regarding how Stallings modestly gives himself credit for obtaining Bill James from the Seattle club. The story goes that the various reports reports running in the Eastern papers often muffed the facts and that the Boston manager was anxious to correct a false report in one of his signed stories, that James was drafted. Stallings in his own statement explains that in the fall of 1912, after he had closed his season with Buffalo, he went to New York and watched the Boston team play the Giants in the grandstand and watched a lot of alleged ball players and despairs of making any improvements inside of a year. Stallings mentioned the fact that he must clean out the old bunch and that the Boston scouts had not provided the

SPURT IN LAST HALF BY LAKOTAS DEFEATS WISCONSIN RESERVES

Lakota Cardinals Returned Winners Over University Team in Well-Played Game by Score of 29 to 20.

One more scalp was added to the victory list of the Lakota Cardinals when they defeated the Wisconsin Reserves, an All-Star university aggregation at the Auditorium Saturday night by the score of 29 to 20. With the score ten all, at the end of the first half, the Lakotas by a sensational spurt for ten minutes, added wood caused the white flag to appear above the defensive works of the Reserves, their team-work crumbling beneath the attack. By this victory the Cardinals have just claim to the basketball title of western Wisconsin and judging from the speed displayed, the five could add several other districts to their championship. Despite the fact that the first half was played under intercollegiate rules, there was no inclination to rough it or was there any intentional fouling, the cleanliness of the game being carefully guarded by Referee Langdon. The game proved, the two teams played on even terms the first half, with the invaders showing excellent team-work and basketball. The Lakotas were saddled with a week on scoring, and that should have rolled the score up to a safe margin, swamping the Reserves. Dalton was a marked man, scoring 10 points, while Edler, who was a disliking to roll through the rim. Atwood was held even by Davy during the first half and "Lanky Ed" had a hard time to shake off this noted Madison center and guard. The Reserves lost the game through trying too long passes and individual dribbling on the big floor. They were hard fighters, but they did not win the game and had a big margin on the Cardinals. Then it came to clean scoring. Davy and Skinner, the blond guard and the blond forward, who were versatile fullback and former Madison boys and proved hard men for the Lakotas. Davy was strong in carrying the ball down the floor by dribbling, going down the floor like a racing machine on a straight-away, to bump into Edler or Ryan at the other end of the floor, who were able to prevent his scoring. Leslie, center of the Reserves, gave Hemming a hard fight and about the only thing that the local player had on his rival was on the jump. This gave the Cardinals a big lead on the ten work and signals worked to a good advantage.
